ReVisions :Expanding the narrative of South African art. The Campbell Smith Collection.
/ Text by Hayden Proud
Pretoria, South Africa : UNISA Press, 2007

360p.; 285 X 250 mm.
ISBN 9781874817332
$ 75.00

The works by South African artists that appear in this book date from the 1920s to 2005. These artists lived through and experienced South Africa's most degrading as well as her most uplifting historical moments. Their work depicts the sensibilities of communities in transition: from rural pastoral life to life in the cities; from pre-industrial society to one dominated by industry; from the paternalism of the Union Government to the studied repression of the 1960s and 70s; from the brutalities of apartheid to the high hopes of a young democracy. The works on display are as significant a historical record as any other rendered in the written word or in music. ReVisions restores the visibility of a host of marginalised and under-represented South African artists, and forms a sequel to The Neglected Tradition exhibition of 1988.

ReVisions+ : Expanding the narrative of South African art The Campbell Smith Collection
/ Text by Hayden Proud
Pretoria, South Africa : UNISA Press, 2008
104p.;
ISBN 9781874 817369
$ 40.00

This sequel publication only contains the new works acquired since the publication of Revisions: Expanding the narrative of South African art in 2007. This new publication is an indispensable supplementary volume that makes extensive reference to the initial publication. It contains biographies on all of the new artists who are now represented in the Collection, as well as an in-depth discussion on newly-acquired works by artists who were already represented in the initial publication.

Myth of Iron: Shaka in history is the first book-length scholarly study to be published. It lays out, as far as possible, all the available evidence – mainly hitherto under-utilised Zulu oral testimonies, supported by other documentary sources – and decides, item by item, legend by legend, what exactly we can know about Shaka's reign. The picture that emerges in this meticulously researched and absorbing 'anti-biography' is very different from the popular narrative we are used to.

Tokai: Historical Media cc, 2009

112p,; 24cm

ISBN-13: 9780620434898

$ 40.00

While there have been in excess of four hundred ships wrecked in Table Bay during the Cape's short history many have been occurred in the area off Green Point. So critical was the situation in the early days that the Green Point lighthouse was commissioned in 1824 followed by the Mouille Point light in 1842.

Wrecked Under the Green Point Light captures the stories of the building of the Lighthouses and a half a dozen of the wrecks that have occurred along the Green and Mouille Point coastline.

240p.; 230 x 150 mm.
ISBN 9781869141578

$ 31.75

Heterosexual Africa? aims to understand an enduring stereotype about Africa and Africans. It asks how Africa came to be defined as a "homosexual-free zone" during the colonial era, and how this idea not only survived the transition to independence but flourished under conditions of globalisation and early panicky responses to HIV/AIDS. In this timely volume, Epprecht examines a number of issues concerning sexuality and the construction of sexual identities that have largely been overlooked by studies of African ethnology in the past.

Imagining, Writing, (Re)Reading the Black Body / Edited by Sandra Jackson, Fassil Demissie & Michele Goodwin
Pretoria, South Africa : UNISA Press, 2009
Xxii + 188p.;
ISBN 978868884780
$ 35.50

At the turn of the twenty-first century, the Black body remains an object of discursive analysis—as material and symbol—inscribed by multiple levels of meaning and shaped by the past, the present and ideas about imagined futures. Through the lens of different disciplines, this book considers how the Black body is read polysemically in terms of social and political contexts and issues of power. The contributors to this text critically examine themes addressing the intersections of race, gender, body politics, representation in popular culture and media, aesthetics, policing and disciplining, and resistance.

Men, Rivers and Canoes- Second edition / by Ian Player,
Reprint

Cape Town, South Africa : Echoing Green Press, 2006

ISBN

9780980250121

$ 40.00

The first edition of Men, Rivers and Canoes was published in 1964, and has long been out of print. It is most fitting therefore that a new edition be published to inspire contemporary readers' and canoeists' appreciation of the sport's roots and traditions. Though his vision was great, he never dreamed how the race would expand as it has. Seeded by his pioneering adventure, canoeing has flourished and grown into the spectacular and popular sport that captures South Africa's imagination today.
