[Turkey is probably at the heart of the 'Modern Islamic Problem'. Together with that of Japan, Turkish history constitutes one of the most worthwhile to study experiment of coping with the problem of living in a 'West' dominated world as 'Non Westerner'. The Turkish 'Modernising' reforms which started in early 18th century and gained momentum in the 19th century, culminated in the so called 'Kemalist' Political and cultural 'revolution' that established a 'west oriented' Republic. Many faithful Muslims in Turkey and other parts of the Islamic world saw this process as blasphemy. Turkey of our days makes a thrilling reading because the fate of this 'radical cultural revolution' is still uncertain. If it settles as a success case in the sense of a stable political and cultural consensus which integrates, 'democratically', a nation of about 70 million people, it will permanently influence the fate of the rest of the Islamic world. For an 'Outsider' wishing to 'read' the puzzling complexities of contemporary Turkish society, the 'story' of the Ottoman-Turkish venture of attempt at 'transformation' in order to cope with the problem of 'living' in a 'West dominated' world can be interesting and rewarding. This book tells the story of this 'transformation'.]

Improvement of Balkan History textbooks Project reports
Turkey : The Economic and social History foundation of Turkey [with the financial support of UNESCO] ix, 204 p. ; 24 cm.
975-7306-91-6
US$ 35.00

[One of the most recent initiatives of the History foundation in the field of history education, namely 'Improvement of the Balkan History textbooks Project', was completed in September 2002. This eight-month pilot projects was supported by UNESCO, the Heinrich Boll Foundation and the Consulate General of the Netherlands in Turkey. The planning meeting in Istanbul (June 17th -18th, 2001) was followed by a workshop in Pamporovo (September 8th – 9th 2001) and a conference in Istanbul (November 30th – December 2nd, 2001) with the Participation of teams from Bulgaria, Croatia, Greece, Romania and Turkey.

The project aimed to bring together academics and history teachers from the Balkan countries; to review primary and Particularly – secondary level history text-books currently in use; and to propose alternative ways of reflecting the political, social and cultural history of these countries. The main objective of the project was to prepare a final report on the history textbooks and the teaching of history in the five Balkan countries. Since history education is in a 'transition period' in each of the five Balkan countries, this book at hand, which is the final report of the project should be considered as a 'Snap shot' of the current state of the history education in the Balkans.]

[This sequel is quite different to other publications in this field due to its unique photos, pictures, graphics and diagrams. The author has used a great number of independent local and foreign sources in order to create a compact and concise publication for the reader.

A Specific attention is paid to the organization of the armies, descriptions of the weaponry, armament and the uniforms of the military units of all the belligerent parties.

Even the smallest details in the descriptions and illustrations of the military uniforms are marked with authenticity and conscientiousness – something that has never been done in other similar books so far.

The books in this series are meant to be read by a great variety of public-starting from people interested in military history and ending to professionals like historians, collectors, museum workers, movie directors, artists etc.

We dearly hope that this sequel will have its audience and will also fill up a current gap for such type of publications.]

[The aim of this book is to provide the reader with an overview of the foreign policy of 105 states and to close a social scientific gap. There is no handbook in the social science literature on foreign policy regarding the foreign policy of the most important nation states that affords a swift and compact overview of this policy area. The lack of such a basic handbook up to now is even more astonishing in the light of the increasing interdependence and network character of foreign policy and in the light of the difficulties of the present international order in overcoming structural problems and regional problems.]

The Bulgarian issue in the Volga-Ural Region [1988-2003] / Nikolay Pavlov
[Translation by Alexandra Pavlova]
Bulgaria, Sofia : Tangra Tannakra publishing house, 2005

[The issue of the Volga Bulgarians has been too long ignored, intentionally or not, which has deprived it of the place it deserves in Bulgarian historiography. Only some ten years ago, the public in Bulgaria found out about the existence of Bulgarians in the distant Volga-Ural region, who were presented as historical kin dating back to a far-off epoch.

Let us hope that Nikolay Pavlov's book will further promote interest in the Volga Bulgarians particularly among the young researchers, who, in studying this subject, will find real satisfaction their scientific quest.]

Comprehensible and scientific definition of the Qur'an and the Bible / Mehmet Guner
Turkey : Can Yayinlari, 2004
219 p.; 18 cm.
975-6358-08-4
US$ 24.00

[Comprehensible and scientific definition of the Qur'an and the Bible Mehmet Guner. In the first chapter of this book which has been prepared as four chapters : Comprehensible explanation is made about what the creative power is which is defined in the verses, how it seems, how one can speak to it and about other religious concepts. Chapter two is concerned with the comprehensible definition of the universal life called the life of the Hereafter. Chapter three is concerned with the comprehension of the difference between dialectical understanding of democratic revolutionism and materialistic dialectic based on compulsion. Chapter four includes the chosen verses and saint's words which are concerned which the topics explained in this book. In proportion to that they utterly read and comprehend the topics which are explained in this book, every person who does not want to be consoled with nonsense, imaginary things, who look for the truth can utterly understand and recognise the truth, which is meant as "Allah" or "Hak", can understand the position of the spirit and the matter, what the life of this world and the life of the hereater means, personalities of the prophets and the saints and also can understand the condition of the aspects which conceal the truth of those things.]
