Ta Prohm : A Glorious Era in Angkor Civilization / Pradeep Kumar Kapur and Sachchidanand Sahai
Bangkok : White Lotus Co., Ltd., c2007
xxxi, 208 p. ; ill. ; 30 cm.
978-974480-097-8
$ 49.50

[Ta Prohm: A Glorious Era in Angkor Civilization offers a new look at the biography of Jayavarman VII, focusing on the ideology of abnegation followed by this Angkorian monarch. With his well-developed policy of public welfare, the king surpassed the contemporary European kings. The monograph shows how Ta Prohm was intricately connected with the royal welfare programs, since its foundations stele describes in detail the assistance given to the hospitals from the royal treasury.

The Monograph presents the temple of Ta Prohm in the Context of Cambodian History, as the first dated temple of the reign of Jayavarman VII (1186). This first monograph-length study of the most enigmatic temple of Angkor complex offers an indispensable reading both for the visitors and specialists interested in unlocking the puzzles of Angkor Art.]

[In 13th century Angkor was said to be one of the largest and wealthiest metropolis in Southeast Asia. Angkor Wat. Bayon and Baphuon symbolically stand for the legendary masterstrokes of Khmer architecture. Since the temple grounds have been freed from the jungle archaeologists work on the reconstruction and deciphering of these stone conserved marvels. However how did the Khmer live? Answers to this question are given by the fascinating report of a Chinese from 13th century.]
