Nepalese Casted Vessels, Decanters and Bowls

Author : Matthew S.Friedman

This book is one of the most important books ever written on the renowned metal industry in the Himalayan Kingdom of Nepal. For the first time, author Mathew has brilliantly recorded the "Lost Wax Method" of metal work. Fast becoming a lost art, this book helps to keep the memory of this art form alive in hopes the future generations in Nepal and elsewhere will come to appreciate the splendor of these unique and beautiful objects.

- What is the "Lost Wax Method"?
- What is the process of casting?
- Who are the craftsmen?
- Why is it important to save this ancient art?

The author intelligently answers these and other important questions. A selection of antique goods still readily available throughout Nepal is also highlighted with an insightful explanation of the cultural and religious significance of each.

The Dreadful Night
Carnage at Nepalese Royal Palace

Author : Aditya Man Shrestha

This is an absorbing narration of what happened on 1 June 2001 in the Royal Palace of Nepal and its causes and consequences. There is no doubt the book is a fair representation of divergent views different sections have on the gruesome incident. The only undisputed fact of the night was the death of ten royalities including the revered Nepalese sovereign. The rest is a mystery. Somebody had to at least try to probe into it so that the tragedy could be seen in its proper perspective.

Nepal social demography and Expressions

Author : Harka Gurung

The book attempts to seek some conjunctions between education and elites, ethnicity and elections, development ideology and the state and society. The text is supplemented by numerous cartograms and statistical tables to illuminate spatial pattern as well as temporal process.

Nepal is presently passing through a phase of economic doldrums and political turmoil. Of no less significance is the current process of social ferment, however subtle. This book is a contribution towards a better understanding of Nepalese society.

Who is the Daughter of Nepal?

A Collection of Essays

Author : Sangita Rayamajhi

What appears to be the case is that women in Nepali live in a twilight world. Those who are associated with political parties, or mavericks like us, both see the images cast on the same screen in the twilight consciousness...

For a woman writer, a tradition and history is not available in the same way as it is available to the male writers....

Nepali women's Problems, their aspirations and their dynamism can not be explained in a linear order as they are being addressed today. My own feeling is that we can not and should not isolate women's discourses, her subject from those that are commonly used in the society. Recent feminist writings show that women than presenting them as appendix to male discourse. I favour that approach. So in these essays...I have attempted to measure the trajectory of current Nepali history, especially after the restoration of Democracy in 1990, that has been tumultuous, chaotic but not without possibilities for the creation of a new era of hope and regeneration.
