1. Brunei Darussalam – Economic Conditions

$ 24.00

This book contains a collection of fourteen academic papers that deal with important aspects of growth, development and structural change in Brunei Darussalam. Pertinent issues such as economic diversification, development planning and its impact on social welfare, patterns and determinants of consumption, expenditures and savings, trade flows and their effects, monetary

Demand and supply and taxation have been selected for in-depth discussions and analysis by specialist writers. The empirical results and findings of all these studies should prove interesting to the reader with an interest on Brunei economic affairs and particularly important to local policy-makers who are tasked with raising economic status of Brunei Darussalam.

New Dimensions of Economic Globalization: Surge of Outward Foreign Direct Investment from Asia / Ramkishen S. Rajan, Rajiv Kumar & Nicola Virgill

Singapore: World Scientific Publishing Co. Pte Ltd, 2008

328p,; 24cm

ISBN: 9789812793102

$ 62.00

This book, written by top scholars from academia, international organizations as well as think tanks, consists of a set of papers focusing on these issues. The book is unique in its coverage — focusing on China, India and Southeast Asia rather than limiting itself to a sub-regional or country-specific focus. The chapters in this book highlight important policy issues but are supported with relevant data and empirics, with rigorous empirical analysis being applied to important practical policy issues. The book also provides pertinent overviews of recent research on the questions explored. While the chapters have been crafted to be able to stand up to academic scrutiny, they are also written in a manner that makes them easily accessible to all policymakers, students and business/financial journalists who are interested in Asia and in the emergence of South-South FDI flows.

[This book challenges the dominant anti-trade and anti globalization stands taken by many civil society organizations, such as NGOs, trade unions and women's organizations. The authors, however, argue that instead of 'free trade', international trade rules need to be tailored to the stage of development of an economy.

Greater openness to trade can bring benefits of new livelihoods for women and men, new technologies and methods of production. But there is also the certainty that some livelihoods will become uncompetitive. In such cases, public policy should be re-directed away from propping up non-competitive livelihoods towards productivity-enhancing investments that can improve competitiveness. Subsidies should be directed to promote change, rather than freeze livelihoods.]

[The Bay of Bengal Initiative for Multi-sectoral Technical and Economic Cooperation (BIMSTEC) is the youngest regional cooperation initiative in Asia. It is being increasingly seen as an important link between South and Southeast Asia.. It evaluates the current state of economic cooperation and integration between BIMSTEC and Japan, and also provides directions for enhancing economic integration between them. The analyses in this book will contribute to a deeper understanding of the process of economic cooperation and integration in BIMSTEC and also in Asia.]

[This book challenges the dominant anti-trade and anti globalization stands taken by many civil society organizations, such as NGOs, trade unions and women's organizations. The authors, however, argue that instead of 'free trade', international trade rules need to be tailored to the stage of development of an economy.

Greater openness to trade can bring benefits of new livelihoods for women and men, new technologies and methods of production. But there is also the certainty that some livelihoods will become uncompetitive. In such cases, public policy should be re-directed away from propping up non-competitive livelihoods towards productivity-enhancing investments that can improve competitiveness. Subsidies should be directed to promote change, rather than freeze livelihoods.]
