'Vietnam has a culture of unity in diversity. Vietnamese cultural heritage is a system of cultural achievements created and preserved by ethnic groups and cultural regions. These cultural achievements, in practice, have interacted with each other and with the challenges of time and historical events. Hoi An port city is formed and developed on the basis of international economic and cultural exchanges, including roles of Chinese, Japanese and Westerners. Today, Hoi An is famous for its Japanese bridge, ancient streets and the Viet-Japan friendship, while important cultural landmarks of the Chinese and Western are rarely mentioned. In fact, in Hoi An, the cultural imprint of the Chinese and their descendants is most prominent, from the architecture of temples, townhouses, beliefs - religion, customs - festivals, culinary, to traditional jobs and economic activity.

At the end of the 17th century, Saigon was a district in Gia Dinh province. Through many changes, Saigon became the center of the new land, known to the world as the "Pearl of the Far East". Saigon is a crossroads city because it is home to many ethnic groups, center of the regional and world wide trade routes. Following that is the continuous exchange of people and diverse cultures. For more than 100 years, Western tone is the dominant tone in modern society, but the new cultural adaptation of indigenous generations is quite different. The reactions from that reality have arisen nationalist-oriented movements. The work of understanding traditional heritage in Gia Dinh - Saigon, from the fields of belief - spirituality, literature - art to customs - practices encountered obstacles and lack of relevant resources.

Ecological criticism appeared in the United Kingdom and the United States in the late 20th century in the context of a severe crisis of the global environment and quickly spread across many countries, including Vietnam. The general purpose of ecological criticism is to study the relationship between people and nature, literature and the environment. On the basis of analyzing and evaluating the early prose of the South from the perspective of ecological criticism, this book will contribute to clarify the harmonious relationship between people and the natural environment. The book also answers the question of why Southern ecological writers have become witnesses of river civilization and environmentalists. The message from the book is not only for today but also for tomorrow.

For a long time, the Southern region of Vietnam has become a research object of many domestic and foreign scientists because of the richness of history and culture as well as the nature of changes and disturbances in the formation and development. From the middle of the nineteenth century, Vietnam stood before the foreign invasion until the Western colonialists completed the task of putting their rule on this country, the Southern problem became more and more complicated from nature to expression. Southern Vietnam has a long history of more than 300 years since the trip in 1698 by Nguyen Huu Canh. More than three centuries have passed, this is the place where important historical transitions took place, which attracted the attention of many foreign scholars.

Influence not only caused scholars to inherit his views, but also remarkably, people rejected his arguments. The book "Classic of Vietnamese Poetry" was completed by Truong Tuu and published for the first time in 1940. This book has an important place in his career because it is a great research work and marks the style of critical research in the spirit of Marxism. Writing 'Classic of Vietnamese Poetry', Truong Tuu comes from the valuation of the origin and effect of the Chinese 'Classic of Poetry', also Shijing or Shih-ching.

'The Ede epic is the true product of the civilization of milpa. These are long stories, with melodies, even expressed or illustrated by movements and actions. The Ede people are famous for the epic of Dam San, Xinh Nha... The Ede epic is mostly of folk origin, exists in the form of word of mouth or text. There are works that are told in 1-2 nights, but there are also works that are extended to 4 - 5 days and nights depending on the imagination, the sublimation of the narrator. Epic performers are respected because according to folk beliefs, they are those who are bestowed with unique abilities. They are considered as "living treasures" of the nation, as a general artist, creator, director of situations, are also talented actors.

Chu Thuan Thuy (Chu Shun Shui) was a talented Chinese living in the early XVII century. He came to Vietnam 5 times in 12 years but still not be used by the imperial court. He went to Japan and help the country develop. It is a regret of many Vietnamese scholars after the study of Chu Shun Shui. However, he also left Vietnam some valuable historical material in the XVII century. This book is a unique historical document in many respects. This memoir gives the reader a picture of the situation in South Vietnam in the XVII century with some new features. For example, the language, the Chinese and Japanese communities in Hoi An, the scholarly situation, the bibliography of Han scripts in Cochin china at that time, the status of divination, the tendency to favor nominal titles.

These documents were collected and published by his family and friends after his death. With the wish to write a history book in his mother tongue, Nguyen Thieu Lau has gradually revived events and characters that have been little or never studied thoroughly, pointing out biased and emotional historians. He paid special attention to the XIX century with both heroic and tragic events in the construction and protection of his father's country. His writings deserve a unique cultural heritage, bringing a lot of valuable research materials and views.

Nguyen Hong (1918-1982) was a writer who made many important contributions to modern Vietnamese literature. He is a writer of the miserales. Humanism is the dominant thought in most of his works. Even when writing about crimes, evil things, his work is always filled with love for people. 'Diary of Nguyen Hong' is precious posthumous articles that his family has collected and arranged to be published. The draft was selected and completed by his daughters, Nguyen Thi Thanh Thu and Nguyen Thi Nha Nam, to introduce to readers on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of his birth. The pages of his diary from 1941 to 1982 demonstrated the cultural life of the country during the first half of the XX century. Readers can imagine how writers have lived and worked in that era.
