"Omran, Islam and Islamic Cities", is broad research project encompassing three independent, yet harmoniously related books of "Da'awa (invitation)." that are published in TWO separate VOLUMES. These books are specifically aimed to entice the reader's intellect, and tempt him to contemplate further, towards the path of devotion to Allah, hence leading to a deeper comprehension of Omran (our duty and true purpose on earth).

The 1st book takes the reader from comprehending the meaning and significance of Man's sacred duty of Omran the Earth; to the 2nd book explaining the Islamic Shariah, as the sole path to "Omran", and its impact on Man, Society, the Natural and Built Environment; and finally the 3rd book clarifying one important facet of "Omran", i.e. the Evolution of Islamic Society and the Islamic City.

Al-Tibb: Healing Traditions in Islamic Medical Manuscripts /

Islamic Arts Museum Malaysia, Malaysia 2018

268p. ; 29cm.

9789832591153

$ 60.00 / HB

The search for knowledge has always been central to the Islamic worldview. Combined with the universal quest for good health, this has had a decisive effect on the development of medical literacy in the Islamic tradition. Cities such as Baghdad and Granada grew into nuclei of learning that preserved and promoted scientific knowledge. Out of this fertile landscape emerged some of the greatest thinkers and innovators in the history of mankind; their theories and formulas have influenced the world for centuries. The exhibition, Al-Tibb: Healing Traditions in Islamic Medical Manuscripts is a pioneering compilation of milestones along this path from the Islamic Arts Museum Malaysia collection. Essays by curators and scholars supplement the selection of manuscripts and accompanying objects to provide a comprehensive approach. Anatomy and physiology, divination, pathology, pharmacy and veterinary science are brought together with Malay healing traditions and Prophetic medicine to give an unprecedented breadth to a field that is as fascinating as it is important.

On February 3, 2015 a video emerged online showing the young Jordanian airforce pilot Muath Al-Kasasbeh being burnt to death by "Islamic State of Iraq and Sham" affiliates (ISIS or IS). Another IS live burning video was released on December 22, 2016, this time of two Turkish prisoners of war. IS quoted the Syrian theologian Ibn Taymiyya in support of the licitness of the publicized burning alive of war captives as revenge and intimidation. The same argument was developed in prior and concurrent pro-IS literature and fatwas online and in print. This book shows that such an argument, fatwas, and acts are in fact unislamic and have no basis whatsoever in the Qur'an, the authentic Sunna and acts of the Companions, or Islamic law in its totality, and that the burning of enemy captives, whether for retaliation, deterrence, or any other reason, is forbidden by consensus in the rulings pertaining to the conduct of war.

Existence and Quiddity in the Later Ash'arite Kalam : A Study on Al-Ijī's Al-Mawaqif and Al-Jurjānī's Sharh Al-Mawaqif / Mohd Zaidi Ismail

Aimed at shedding some light on the intellectual process that historically led to the sophisticated elaborations and analyses of existence (wujūd) and quiddity (māhiyyah) by such later ūfī metaphysicians as 'Abd al-Ramān al-Jāmī, 'Abd al-Ghanī al-Nāblusī, Mullā adrā and others, the present work explores the position of a school of thought in the Islamic history—that is to say, later ash'arisms as represented primarily by its two famous mutakallims, one from the 7th/8th century of Hijrah and the other from the 8th/9th century, namely: 'Aud al-Dīn 'Abd al-Ramān al-Ījī (d. 756 H.) and al-Sayyid al-Sharīf 'Alī b. Muammad al-Jurjānī (d. 816 H.)—which was directly and actively involved in the intellectual debates about the nature of existence and quiddity that resulted in a creative synthesis of the aforementioned metaphysicians. It is therefore an attempt to survey how these two mutakallims, the former being the main actor and the latter being his commentator, dealt with the various positions adopted pertaining to the nature of existence and its relation to quiddity. In so doing, it selects al-Ījī's widely acclaimed kalām manual, al-Mawāqif, and the most famous among its many commentaries, the one done by al-Jurjānī.
